

THE GREYHOUND

Vol. XXXIV, No. 14

Loyola College — Baltimore 10, Maryland

January 13, 1961

(L. to r.) Pete Karzewski, Rich Hauer, John Burns and Eb Eberhardt set the mood as "Prohibition Daze" hits the campus.

Prohibition Daze Set 20's Dress Featured

On Saturday, January 28, the Senior Class of Loyola College will present the fourth annual "Prohibition Daze" Dance. The affair will be held in the gym from nine until one, and music for the occasion will be furnished by the Dellenaires. The theme of the dance as the name indicates will be "The Roaring Twenties."

Gangsters and Gals

Loyola gigolos and their flappers are invited to appear in the costume of this flaming decade. The suitable dress for the affair could vary from double-breasted suits to striped jackets, straw hats and canes for the boys, and for the girls, flapper costumes are most appropriate. Prizes will be given for the most original male and the most original female costumes. Although the students are encouraged to dress according to the mode of the era, costumes are optional.

Shaving Cream and Greasepaint

In past years the entertainment provided by the students has varied from barbershop quartets to a one-act play. Any suggestions for this year's entertainment would be appreciated, and such ideas should be expressed to Rich Hauer, the chairman of the affair. This year's M.C. will be Dick Prodey.

Tickets are $3.50 and may be obtained from seniors Tom Opitz, Nick Leyko, Bill Baurenschub, and Dick Prodey; juniors, Joe France, John Baynes, and John Feller; sophomores, John Ramos, Ed Slawski, and Ed Conery; freshmen Paul Rock, Rich Kraus, and Ron Diegelman.

Joe sent me!

The imaginative theme of "Prohibition Daze" has always made it one of the most popular dances on campus. Coming right after exams, it gives the men of Loyola an occasion to let off a little steam. The music is hot, the lights are low, and, oh yeh!, just remember Joe sent you.

Bo (Scarface) Bavis cases the joint before the big blast.

Semester Exams Begin; New Regulations Given

Semester examinations begin Monday, January 16, and continue through Monday, January 23, for all day students of Loyola College.

This is the first time examinations will be held over a seven day period. The new schedule includes Saturday in the testing program.

Another new feature this year is the procedure for securing blue books to be used during the examinations. By January 9, all students were to have paid the manager of

Col. Kadick To Attend National War College

On December 28, the Department of the Army announced that Colonel Misha N. Kadick, the Chairman of Military Science and Tactics Department at Loyola College, has been selected to attend the 1961-62 class of the National War College. In conjunction with this re-appointment, he has also been selected for promotion, which is to take place some time next summer.

Spot News

Art for Art's Sake

The Evergreen Quarterly reminds the students that the deadline for entries in the Art Contest has been extended until the week after exams. All entries, which should be mounted, will be judged the first week of the second semester.

Better Bluebooks

In order to facilitate the process of testing the students during exam week, the student body was required to pay 25¢ to the proprietor of the Campus Shop. The expense will insure the student a better blue book when he enters the exam room to take an exam.

Freedom Fighters

"Life Line" is presenting an essay contest in the interest of freedom. The essay should be approximately 1500 words on the topic of freedom. Fifteen prizes ranging from $400 to $10 in cash will be awarded. For more information see the editor of the GREYHOUND.

Alumni Announce . . .

The Loyola College Alumni Association will hold its annual Alumni Dance in the Pikesville Armory on January 28 from 9 'til 1. Tickets are $5.00 per couple and may be purchased at the Alumni Office in Millbrook House. Music will be supplied by the Savoys. The GREYHOUND certainly hopes that the old grads will have a fine time.

Col. Misha N. Kadick
Past Posts

During the past two years of his tenure of duty as commandant of the Loyola ROTC Brigade, Colonel Kadick served on the President's Committee to study Foreign Aid (Draper Committee, 1958-59). Prior to his assignment the Colonel served from 1955 to 1958 as a member of the U.S. Delegation to the NATO Council in Paris, France and in 1954-55 he was commander of the Automatic Weapons Battalion in Austria.

Educational Experience

In addition to his military experience, Colonel Kadick is recognized as an accomplished scholar. He is one of the far too few Americans with a fluent knowledge of the heretofore neglected language, Russian. Raised and educated in Virginia, the Colonel received his B.A. and Army commission upon graduation from the Virginia Military Institute. Since that time, he has acquired a Master's degree in Political Science from Princeton, and is also scheduled to receive his Ph.D. in June from that same university. Colonel Kadick is also a graduate of the Graduate Command and General Staff College.

the bookstore 25¢ to cover the cost of blue books. These registered blue books will be distributed by the proctor immediately before each examination.

Deferred and Conditioned

Students who are absent from an examination may, after a satisfactory explanation of the reason for their absence, and with the permission of the Dean, be permitted to take a deferred semester examination. The fee is $5.00 per examination.

Why The Greyhound?

Recently on campus, there were various opinions expressed concerning the value and purpose of the Greyhound. In the cafe several juniors were quick to make their views heard, and in the library building one faculty member took the time to speak briefly to his class concerning the publication. The topics were quite diversified, ranging from the "stereo-typed humor" of the Watchdog to the publicity which the paper affords the college.

One person informed several students that the Greyhound is merely a publication for the students. We are happy to see that someone reads our masthead. Also, this same person indirectly classified this newspaper as merely "something we have to get out" and "something for us to do a little bit of work on and thereby show our school spirit." The staff of the Greyhound truly appreciates precise and well constructed criticism; however, we would like to comment on such remarks as these.

That a student is motivated to join an activity by his desire to show school spirit is an attitude we consider to be acceptable but not at all practical or probable.

Theoretically speaking, a man never learns all there is to learn, no matter how specialized and narrow his field of concentration. On the contrary, a liberal education aims at acquainting one with a wide variety of topics, and, paradoxically, in only this way can we speak of one being fully educated.

It is here that extra-curricular activities enter the picture. They provide a ready opportunity for acquiring and putting into practice the knowledge gained inside the classroom. Furthermore, membership in a campus activity often exposes one to a field of knowledge wider in scope than that of the fundamental operations of the activity.

We, therefore, realize that if one has these advantages in mind, his motivation is actually scholarly in nature. Therefore, to those who believe that activity members, and especially the Greyhound staff, are primarily motivated by opportunities to exhibit school spirit, we must disagree.

the Watchdog

We would like to take this opportunity to mention the Senior dance to be held on the 28th of this month. Besides, our editor is the publicity agent. Therefore, we advise everyone to attend the affair and to wear "roaring twenties" costumes if they possibly can. And, fellows, we suggest that if you go, you remember the theme. The Jabs have not yet recognized the 21st Amendment.

On the day after the recent snow-storm, a Loyola student, who lives in the school's vicinity, refused to attend, because he had only one class, Math, and his car was stuck. This is positive proof that not everyone would walk a mile for a Kam-mel.

During the holidays, someone broke into the Student Union Building and robbed the bookstore. That's a switch, huh Mac?

There has been a recent announcement that the students are required to pay a 25¢ bluebook fee in order to take the exams. We realize that this saves us the trouble of carrying them around, but we still think that the freight charges are a bit too high. Next step: Pay Toilets!

Wit, Work, Wisdom,

Meet Fred Benson

There have been few people who have not been affected by the uproarious humor of Fred Benson. The prominent senior, who at first glance impresses one as a playboy, upon further scrutinization is revealed as a very talented and capable young man. His past and present Q. P. A. can serve as a proof of this statement.

Fred is an A.B. History major and the possessor of a consistently held, above 3.0, Q. P. A.-A noted member of advanced R.O.T.C., he is a Lieutenant Colonel and Deputy Brigade Commander. Besides this, he is the commander of the Pershing Rifles, a Distinguished Military Student, and a member of the Scabbard and Blade and the A.U.S.A.

Other Interests

Outside of the military, other extracurricular activities list Fred as a member. These are: the History Academy, A.S.O., and the Management Club. In Freshman and Sophomore years, Fred represented his class on the Student Council and it was this honor, the extracurriculars, and his academic excellence which have won him a spot on the Who's Who Among College Students.

Fred confided that his most thrilling experience was his becoming the Commander of the Pershing Rifles, last April. He also confessed that one of his pet projects, currently, is the sponsoring of a seminar which would aid underclassmen in choosing their majors for the coming years. "The seminar would be held by fellows who have attained excellence in their majors and whom we feel can help the underclassmen to make a wise choice," said the affable senior.

Looking Ahead

As for the future, Fred plans to marry in June. Because of an unfortunate accident in which he injured his leg, he has still to attend summer camp. After this, he plans to enter the army for two years, but does not wish a Regular Army Commission. Whatever the future brings, Fred will meet it with the same good humor and consistent dedication to duty and excellence as he was noted for during his stay at Loyola.

Fred's next move?

Ol' Jim Henneman's heart should swell with joy after the basketball game last Saturday night at Evergreen. The combination of a terrific game and an equally terrific turnout made it a memorable evening all around.

Laurel wreaths go in turn to Ed Murn, John Heagney, and Jim Kennedy, all of whom made excellent showings. In the last couple of minutes, Charlie O'Donnell took to the floor and put on a one-man show to the delight of an exuberant audience.

If Saturday's game is indicative of future performances, we should witness the rebirth of a new and truly outstanding team. Let's see if we can't keep the numerical caliber of the fans equal to the spirit of a fine team.

Ecumenical Sidelights

Last Friday evening, the first of the Ayd series of lectures took place in Cohn Hall before a well-attended audience. Msgr. William Carew, an official of the Papal Secretariat of State, was the kick-off speaker in the new series. The topic--"The Twentieth Century Ecumenical Council."

Those who attended came away learning nothing new, but rather discovered that there have been twenty previous similar Church Councils. No real information was forthcoming and the suave diplomat confidentially confided, "Actually, as far as what is to take place and what subjects will be discussed, I have no more knowledge than you do!"

Father Davish asked the speaker if there was any possibility that the Index of forbidden books might be revised or done away with. Answered Msgr. Carew, "I have no idea, but you might write to one of the preparatory commissions." To be able to cast a vote against the Index, Father Davish would have to be a bishop. Someone suggested that the Black Pope give our Library Director a "touch of the purple."

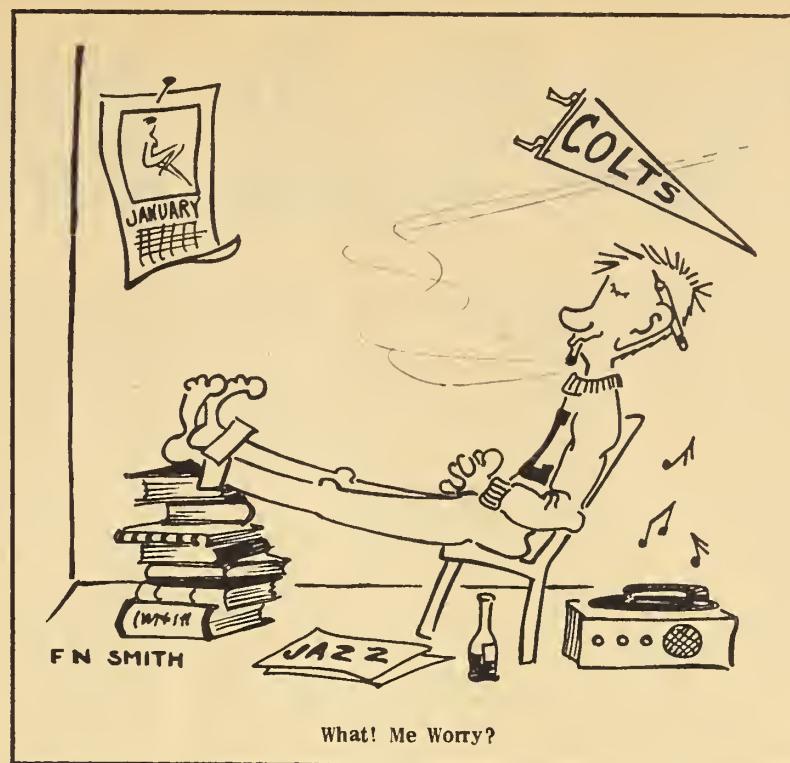

Counsel For Council

With the end of the first semester just around the corner, an unnamed member of the Student Council called to my attention the fact that this governing body has done absolutely nothing thus far. Whether this sad state of affairs is due to ineffectiveness on the part of the Council's head or to the unimaginativeness on the part of its members is a mysterious question and should be of some concern to the student body. Is the Council just another tool of the Administration?

While class re-elections are still several months away, it is not too early to begin thinking about possible candidates.

A Word On Exams

A hard teacher is usually an easy marker. Any consolation?

Harbor Lights

Well, for anyone who has forgotten (and justifiably so), this article began about four or five weeks ago. And it was to appear in the Greyhound each week, but due to circumstances beyond anyone's control it has appeared a total number of one time.

Nevertheless, here we go again with ideas for dateworthy entertainment--during exams. The story of the controversial Civil War trial, "The Andersonville Trial," is at Ford's Theatre tonight and tomorrow night, Jan. 13 and 14. It starts at 8:30, and it stars Brian Donlevy.

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra will be at the Lyric, Saturday night, playing the music of central Europe. The concert is entitled "Viennese-Bohemian Night."

The Vagabond Arena Theatre will present Hermann Gressieker's "Royal Gambit" from now until January 21. The play, concerning Henry VIII and his six wives, has been considered one of the finest dramatic plays to appear on the American stage in several years.

As far as sports go, the Loyola College swimming team will meet American U. here at 2:30 tomorrow. And the basketball team will be hosts to Mt. St. Mary's here at 8:15. "Fiorello! Fiorello! Fiorello!" The Broadway smash hit opens at Ford's for one week beginning January 16. It's a musical comedy about New York's Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia. It has received many awards, and the critics apparently loved it.

The newest spectacular in town is "Exodus"--at spectacular prices. "Ben-Hur" is here for "positively" its last 2 weeks. Alec Guinness is just as jerky as ever in his "Tunes of Glory" at The 5 West.

On Saturday, Jan. 28, the senior class will present its traditional "Prohibition Daze" Dance. The price, the music and the rules will be traditional too.

"The Ice Capades" will be coming to Uline Arena in Washington on January 30, and running for 12 nights.

On "nothing-to-do" night (the 16th-23rd, for example) the same old stand-by movie houses will be running, as usual, the same old stand-by type of movies.

If you've done all these things, then you can always go down to the harbor and watch the lights, or the snow, or . . .

Hounds Host Mt. St. Mary's Five Natators Face Tough American U.

Game Set For 8:15 Tom. Night

By DARRELL RUSSELL

Tomorrow night, here at Evergreen at 8:15 p.m., Loyola reaches the crossroads of its 1960-61 basketball season, when it faces its long archival, Mount Saint Mary's.

Before the holidays began, no one in his right mind would have given Loyola half a chance against the powerhouse, Mt. St. Mary's. The Hound cagers had dropped six consecutive games, and were being called Loyola's weakest in years. Then suddenly the Hounds upset B.U. and rolled to triumphs over Washington College and Towson State Teachers.

However, it will take Loyola's best effort yet to upset this Mountaineer five, generally considered the strongest team in the conference.

Coach Jim Phelan depends upon veterans Dick Tally, 6'5", Captain Jerry Savage, and speedy Eddie Pfeiffer, all double figure shotmakers, along with Jack O'Reilly, 6'4", a highly-touted soph, and 6'9" frosh, Dick Saylor to carry the Mounts.

This imposing fivesome with adequate help from Jack Thompson, 6'5" and Dave Samuels, 6'3" among others, has carried the visitors from Emmitsburg to an unblimished conference slate so far this season.

To attempt to inflict upon the Mounts their initial Mason-Dixon setback, Lefty Reitz will field a starting five of John Heagney and Ed Murn, outstanding seniors, along with Charlie O'Donnell, Tony Torba and frosh Jody Satterfield.

Murn will give Loyola its share of rebounds despite the Mount's overall height. Heagney, boasting a 25 point average, will score. O'Donnell will make some plays. But Loyola must stop the all-conference Savage and Tally. These same two helped deal the Hound five two losses to Mt. St. Mary's last year.

Lefty feels Loyola can pull it out. Jim Phelan thinks this is his most talented five ever.

But all told, you can throw the record books out the window in this one. No one should miss the Hound attempt to recapture the victory bell.

Potter, Torba scrap for rebound.

Intramural Items

With basketball season in full swing, the 17 registered intramural teams are about to swing into action. The teams that should bear watching are three of the senior teams. They are the Jocks, the Handy Six with Mike Ellis who was the outstanding intramural player of last year, and of course the defending champion Moleskins. The Moleskins are led by Jerry Sibiski and Jim Fowler.

The Junior team that bears a good look is the Pagans with Steve Bogusky, Jimmy Lamar, and Norrie Burns. The Soph hopes seem to be behind the Moles, spearheaded by 6'4" Dorsey Baldwin and Tony Rivezzo. Denny Rudolph and Don Kemper head a very strong Freshman team called the Mavericks as the teams head into what should be a very interesting year.

Last Year

Last year the Moleskins coped the intramural crown with an undefeated season. They defeated the Junior Moles in a hardfought bloody battle.

Potter, Torba scrap for rebound.

First Gun Sounds At 2:30 P.M.

Tomorrow, at 2:30, the Hound Natators entertain American U. in their first home meet of the season. This meet is the most important one of the season for both teams. The winner should go on to take the Mason Dixon Conference laurels for dual meet competition. American U. will be favored, but the Hounds will be out to avenge a 60 to 35 loss of last year. American U. has a very strong team featuring several boys who tried for the Olympic Team. But the Greyhounds, led by their leading scorers Ken Freimuth and Marty Pilsch, can certainly make a battle of it, and the final outcome will be very close.

A large enthusiastic crowd could certainly make a win easier for Loyola. The Hound swimmers are yet to be defeated and deserve a fine turnout for this most important meet. With the backing of the whole student body, the Hounds will certainly bring the Mason-Dixon Swimming Championship back to Evergreen.

In the latest meet Loyola swamped Gettysburg by a score of 71 to 24.

It was the first win for the Hounds in the Gettysburg pool in three attempts. The Hounds had beaten the Bullets twice before, but both triumphs were at home.

Marty Pilsch came through with the top effort of the day for the Hounds, racking up 8 points. He set a new pool record in the 440 yd. freestyle event by hitting the tape in 5:08. The medley relay team also set a new Gettysburg pool record with Lew Smith, Ken Freimuth, Charley Bree, and Peter Powley swimming the event.

Karpens in, Hughes out in relay.

Wrestlers Face A.U. Tomorrow; Lose To Hopkins In First Meet

Tomorrow afternoon the Loyola wrestling team ventures to A.U. for their third conference meet.

Last Saturday the Hound grapplers dropped their opener to a very tough Johns Hopkins team by a score of 22-10.

Won Two

Coming through for the Hounds were Tom Milligan at 167 and Charley Carey at 191. Charley Graham gave the Hound fans something else to cheer about when he tied his match.

Milligan pinned his Bluejay counterpart in 2:59 of the first period. This was an outstanding feat for the all-Maryland freshman from Southern High. It was his first college meet.

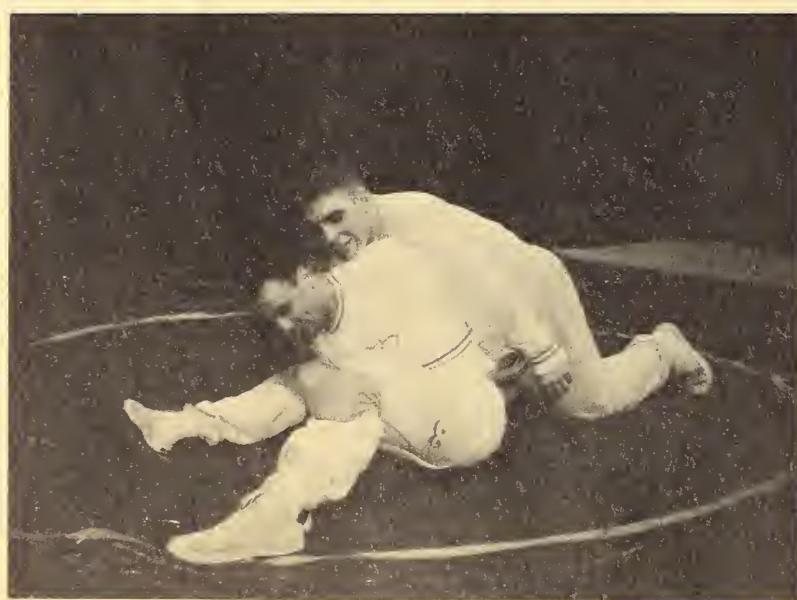

Graham with a brilliant last minute effort, pulled a reversal on his opponent to gain the draw. Carey decisioned his man 7-2.

Future Bright

Despite the loss, there are many things to be encouraged about. In all diversions except the unlimited Loyola fared well, losing in several close decisions.

The major factor in several of these close decisions was undoubtedly lack of experience.

Alex Schilpp showed real promise in the 137 pound class. As he dropped a close decision by the narrow margin of 2-0.

Senior Carey and Frosh Milligan go at it in practice session.
